MARCUS GARVEY DISCUSSES SELFISH NATIONALISM OF EUROPEANS AND WARNS RACE OF CONSEQUENCES

Fellowmen of the Negro Race, Greeting:

If I were to be asked what impressed me most in Europe during my stay, I should reply: "The selfish nationalism of the Europeans." In my study of the different race groups and nations, I have found that the spirit of self-interest, racially and nationally, is most pronounced. In England there is an exclusive selfishness of everything for the Englishman, and we find the same attitude in France, in Germany, in Italy and all the Continental countries of Europe.

Racial and Nationalistic

When men speak in these parts of the world, they do so only from their racial and nationalistic point of view. The question of humanity is limited by geographical bounds, so that the Negro must be well guarded at this time in accepting the platitudes of international statesmen, because their utterances really are to be interpreted only in the terms of their particular race and nation. It is because the Negro never understood this is why he has grown to be the pitiable child of circumstance today. When some great white teacher or preacher or leader would address a Negro audience or a mixed assembly and talk about our past glory or our future, the Negro would be persuaded to think and believe that he was included in such expressions, but the centuries have revealed to us that such speeches and addresses were not intended for us, but for the race of the speaker generally. And so I have discovered that when the so-called leaders of the day do speak, none of them intend to include the Negro in any promising or hopeful consideration that may be aimed at as a policy to be observed. We must, therefore, develop a racial selfishness and exclusiveness as pronounced as that of the European if we are to overcome the political, economic and social disadvantages that we now suffer from because of misguided belief in others.

Think Pro-Negro Now and Always

My advice to Negroes everywhere is to think pro-Negro now and always. Everything in the world must be seen only from the Negro's point of view. You may indulge in the same platitudes as others have indulged in, such as the talk about the larger humanity, the Christian brotherhood, and the rights of all mankind, but practically we must live for ourselves. This is the lesson Europe has taught me. This is the policy of Europeans. If you doubt it, go to England and you will find the Englishman living only for Englishmen; go to France and you will find the Frenchman living only for Frenchmen; go to Germany and you will find the German living only for Germans; go to Italy

Says the White Statesman of Europe Is Looking Out for His Own to Exclusion of All Others

NEGROES MUST THINK PRO-NEGRO NOW AND ALWAYS

"Africa for the Africans" Must Be the First Consideration and Guiding Principle—Negroes Must Exploit the Great Powers That They Undoubtedly Possess and you will find the Italian living only for Italians. The time has come for the Negro to live only for Negroes. It is good that I am not a preacher but a statesman, so that I can afford to give this advice to millions of my race who are suffering with me. If I am accused of being selfish and heartless, then lay the same charge at the door of Monsieur Briand of France, Signor Mussolini of Italy, and at the door of Mr. Lloyd George of England. I have learned to admire these men with more human interest than heretofore; I realize that they are putting into execution that ancient law, "Charity begins at home.' Surely charity begins at home for England, for France, for Italy, for Germany, and it is only the foolish Negro who does not realize that charity ought to commence at home in Africa for his own people.

Let No Power Persuade

Negroes, let no power in the world persuade you about the rights of man when you are to pay the price and others are to reap the benefits. The rights of man surely mean that Englishmen ought to look after Englishmen, Frenchmen look after Frenchmen and that Germans should look after Germans and Negroes should look after Negroes. Anything else preached to you from the pulpit or from the press is bunk, so you may listen to it with one ear and let it pass through the other; but set down one principle in your mind, and that is, "Africa for the Africans, those as home and those abroad."

Organize to Be a Negro

From now onward the Negro must organize to be a Negro. He must live as a Negro; he must struggle as a Negro; he must fight his battles as a Negro, and he must die nobly as a Negro. Standing on such a foundation, we will surely succeed. We are too numerous and too strong to forfeit any claim that we demand. The Negro is potentially strong and powerful; he can do for himself and accomplish much by being determined and persevering. Our determination and perseverance will lead in the direction of a solidified race the world over.

A Grim Reality

What I am saying is no farce, nor any dream; it is a grim reality. Out of vast areas of European lands different groups have created their nations and governments that reflect today their power and glory. The same opportunity invites the Negro in the twentieth century. Africa with her vast resources beckons the Negro to come, to be awakened to the many opportunities that Nature offers in the greatest country in the world. The Negro who was great in centuries gone by shall be great in centuries to come, and so I am urging black men here and everywhere to buckle on the armor of service-service to race and service to Africa. We must do this by being just what we are-Negroes, not Jews, not Anglo-Saxons, not Celts or Teutons, but Negroes. We should be proud of being what we are, because Nature so lovely made us what we are. We shall lift this race of ours to a pinnacle of human service, of human accomplishment, of human dominion that shall make us a power and a great people. Thank God, there is no dishonor in being black! Find in it, men, the honor that Englishmen find in being white, that the German finds in being blonde. The same virtue that others find in their color and in their race, find it in yours.

The World Our Stage

Let the world be our stage of action. Let Africa be the objective of our concern, and so, whether we be in the West Indies, in America, in Europe or in Asia, or in any section of the world, letous work together under the banner of the Red, the Black and the Green and unite our forces for the welding together of a compact race and for the creating of a national inspiration that shall never die.

Be assured that everything that I have written I mean. Everything I have given expression to I have experienced. I am writing to you from the fullness of knowledge. Let no power persuade you to the contrary. You must live for yourselves, with the purpose of clasping the hand of your brother, ignoring from what section of the world he comes, so that both of you may journey on to the great objective — Africa redeemed, the Negro race emancipated everywhere.

With very best wishes, I have the honor to be.
Your obedient servant,

But we do not find it easy to be charitable when we recall the manner in which the Negroes were singled out as special culprits—the captain of the ship being apparently the only other—and the flood of mendacions and damning details that was poured into

Let the New York World, through its special reporter, Dudley Nichols, tell the story of what Licorish did:

"There were wretched and suffering people among the survivors, but Lioned Licorish was not among their number. Licorish, quartermaster on the Vestris, is a pure-black Barbadian.

The standard performed by black men must fight with all the vestimence of the crew even appearing in the limelight. History records great deeds of bravery performed by black men.

"For Licorish, in the middle of all that drowning and destruction which followed upon the foundering of the steamer, all at once found himself lying in a drifting lifeboat with a couple of bruised ribs. He saw a man lying unconscious under one of the thwarts, but there wasn't an oar in sight. Licorish looked around. Then he stood on the thwart and dived cleanly. and a moment later he was awimming back to the boat with a pair of oars.

"However he managed it, he did get into the boat and set to work with the help of the reviving occupant, who turned out to

Nor was Licorish's feat by any means isolated. Several white passengers and members of the crew have come forward, almost angrily, to denounce the unwarranted attacks upon the Negro seamen and to declare, to the contrary, that they comported themselves in a manner worthy of the best traditions of men of the sca. It is in a manner worthy of the best traditions of men of the sea. It is now known, for instance, that John Henry Alexi, like Licorish, a native of Barbados, was responsible for the rescue of no less than twenty-one persons; that he had leaped into the sea with the last of the crew on the starboard side just as the ship was slowly turning over; that he had fastened a lifebelt about him, as the others had rhythms; in prose, Turkish and Arabic was shipped from Holland to the done, and made a dash to get away from the turbulent waters about the sinking vessel; that he was heading away from the ship when the sinking vessel; that he was heading away from the ship when the saw that one of the lifeboats had been wrenched loose from the Arabic grammatical forms along with 160 and was allowed with 180 and was allowed with 180 and was head and an along the ship when the ship when the sinking vessel; that he was heading away from the ship when ated only by quitting the flowery for other countries are lacking, but it is said the 1928 foral will show a big wast.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

Negroes Still Trust Their White Enemies

To the Editor of The Negro World; The message sent some time ago by the Honorable Marcus Garvey that the Negro has no friend but God should greatly impress us and cause Negroes the world over to read and learn. Prior 'tying case, with which the Negroes had to the advent of Garvey on the scene mothing to do, the Negroes, as usual, many Negroes at home and abroad were regarded as "rowers of boats and many Negroes at home aim abroad trusted faithfully in the lave of the white man, thereby placing all their hopes and applications in its hunds, Despite the fact that cruelties, drastic disadvantages and inhuman articus were imposed upon them, yet they considered that these treatments were avenues to a greater love by the white man because he always promised them an entrance into a mythical filly-white heaven with their skine transformed from Black to snow-white and per-petually feasting on milk and honey.

But the searchilght of Garveyism povents the fact that the pretended love of the white man is only hait to lure us into pits of inevitable destruc-Rion. But many Negroes are still trusting sacredly to the white man's Can it he in this ago of the world's great enlightenment, when the world's great emperiement, when the antivival of the fittest is the maxim of the day; when many of the oppressed races are endeaverien to shake off the shackies imposed by an allen race through diplomatic measures; when the signs of the times are showing that bocause of the corruption and selfish-ness which have imprograted the human family, no one race will un-selfishly love and take cars of another, that the Negro is ignorant in of experience? Oh, if we Necroes could only see ourselves as others see us! We are very serious crisis, and if we still trust to the white man's love for racial emancipation, ours will be an everlasting hell. Would to God that we would realize now that He is our only Friend and Lover and trust Him for our perpetual redemption by de-veloping the latest talents that He within us, thereby presenting an African power to the world to save our-selves and posterity from ruin, disgrace and annihilation.

Prejudice Ever Present In the Nordic Mind To the Editor of The Negro World:

William W. Davies, correspondent of "La Nacion," of Bucnos Aires, South America, and lucky survivor of the litfated liner Vestris, evidently believes that self-preservation is the first law of nature only so for as the brave and proud Nordica are concerned. Writing his experiences ducing the slowing of the unfortunate ship. Mr. Davies describes in glowing terms "the herotem of white women and the calm, tactful and excellent work of white officers and white billows, saw nothing but "cow ardice on the part of our women, and sleepiness and insolence on the part of the few black men in the lifeboats." Why the white man detests so desperately the business of saving himself in times of great troubles may not be a hard question to answer; but it is very clear, according to Mr. Da-vies' story, that in this sad and horrisavers of white men, women and chil highest Republican vote hitherto east for President, and that Governor Smith's vote will exceed by possibly 7.000.000 the highest Democratic vote

Mr. Michelet said that the last three Republican candidates polled, respect-ively: 1924, President Couldge, 15, 725,816; 1920, Senator Harding, 18 152,200; 1914, before wamen generally voted, Judge Hughes, 8,538,321.

The last three Democratic candidates polled: 1924, John W. Davis, 8,388,593; 1920, Governor Cox. 9,147,-353: 1916, before woman suffrage, President Wilson, 9.129,606.

This year, with 4,862 election dis triets missing, according to Mr. Michelet, the incomplete and unofficial returns give Herbert Heaver 20.812,913 ntes and Governor Smith 14,626,803. The incomplete total for two candi dates is 35,439,715.

Thirty-five of these schools are of as possible. Fifty per cent of the Names teachers of Texas, he said, atended summer schools during the past year. Miss Mary Shipp Sanders of the State School Department gave an interesting report as to attendance, equipment and distribution of school funds, indicating clearly the desire of the State Department that the Negroes of Texas should participate fairly public school facilities, a result which In State of Texas often falls of attainment, however, for lack of local interest. Every member of the committee was urged to invertigate the conditions in his own county or community.

Miss Annie May Mathia, colored nurse from the State Department of Health, told an interesting story of the public health work being done by colored nurses through maternity in-struction and by the staff of the bealth train which was sent about the State. It was agreed that the members of the committee should lend all possible supnort to this work in their several communities, as well as to its adequate maintenance by the State. Prof. Houston reported the results of thorough investigation of the two lynchings in Texas this year, and the neutrities accepted the obligation to do everything in its power to blot out this crime, including the possibility of ertnin special anti-lynching legisla on. Prof. Houston urged the colored members of the committee to do their stmost to discourage crime and other causes of ill will and friction,
